

OB Hospitalist Elective

The Obstetric Hospitalist elective provides you with an in-depth exposure to inpatient care of patients on Labor and Delivery. You work under the direct supervision of the Obstetric Hospitalist (nights) whose primary role is the general medical care of hospitalized patients. You help manage laboring patients, see patients in labor and delivery, triage, and assist with cesarean sections. You will round on all patients for whom you were involved in care once they are post-partum. Additionally, you function similar to the night resident and assist with cross coverage of inpatient gynecology patients as well as see patients who arrive in the emergency department with obstetric or gynecologic concerns. You may assist in the operating room if patients who present to the emergency room require immediate surgery.
